D&D Distribution Services Receives ISO 9001/2008 Certification

Central PA Company Seeks More Port of Philadelphia Business

(YORK, PA June, 2010) It's an internationally recognized standard of excellence, and now D&D Distribution Services has it. The central Pennsylvania-based company recently became compliant to ISO 9001/2008 Quality Management System standards for warehousing and distribution of customer products.

D&D Distribution Services is trying to do more with the Port of Philadelphia, according to Sales and Marketing Manager Bob Gotwols. Gotwols noted that D&D can service Port of Philadelphia customers in the York – Lancaster – Harrisburg area and beyond.

“Our ISO certification and Foreign Trade Zone 147 afford customers a competitive advantage,” noted company President Dave Zorbaugh, “in moving their goods to market, globally and within the Philadelphia region.”

Since 1976, D&D Distribution Services has worked with domestic and international shippers throughout the mid-Atlantic region. International customers, especially, look for the ISO (International Organization for Standardization) designation in order to feel comfortable with a service provider in a new market.

The ISO certification process, which lasted approximately nine months, was completed on May 17, 2010. The final certification was registered with QMI SAI Global, North America's largest management systems registrar.

D&D operates two ISO certified warehouse sites:

D&D President Zorbaugh said, "we are dedicated to providing quality and efficient service to our customers... through a system of continuous improvement in all aspects of our business."
